"Biology is closed . . . and I pre-registered!"

IT'S UP TO ME

Outside my window
Another day.
It can be bright
Or it can be gray.
It can be filled
With tasks well done,
With love and friends,
With joy and fun.
The blessing of choice
Is given to me
To color this new day
As I see.

Katherine Edelman

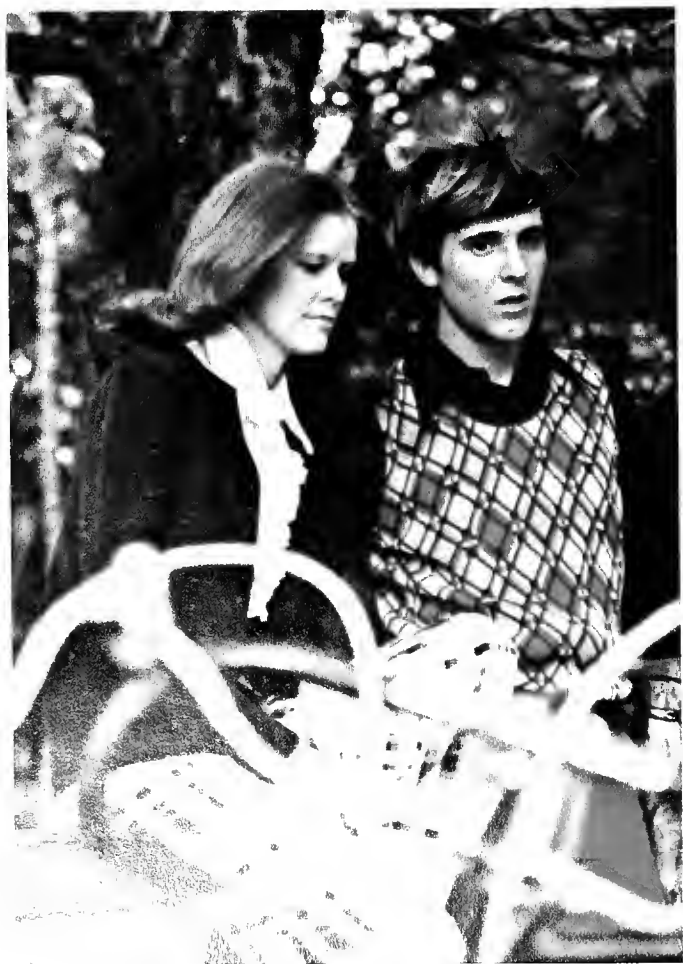

*Sometimes I feel so alone.
I wonder if you are forever gone.
Maybe it is silly of me to think
That our lives will no longer link.
Not to be able to explore life's ways
By being together throughout our days.
I wonder if you'll always want me . . .
And if not, what would life be?*

Be Yourself

VERY SOFTLY

It's very pleasant out here, away and together.

Yeah, it's a little cool though.

Do you want my jacket?

Well . . . will you be warm enough?

I know I will.

Do you wanna hold hands?

Sure, if you do. Oh. I'll think about it.

Boy, they sure are warm. — Hey!

Oh, what? I'm sorry.

You didn't hear me; what are you thinking about?

I — I guess you . . . and me, and how wonderful it is to be with each other.

Do you really mean that? Yes, please believe me.

I do! I do! You know, I think I feel the same, but I can't explain it. Well, don't try to, I understand. No, No, I want to;

You make me feel warm and secure.
I like to laugh with you, and watch the tears run down your face . . .

You've got a funny nose.

Gee, thanks, yours isn't perfect you know.

So, you see, that's something we've got in common.

Boy, for a guy who's romantic, you sure aren't romantic.

Well, dummy I was just kidding.

Yeah, I like for you to do that,
it's fun.

I like for you to hold me, and touch me.

Do you think we were made for each other?

Maybe, in a sense. We were made for people like ourselves. And I'm glad I found you, I need you.

Did you ever jump in a big bunch of leaves when you were little?

Yeah, that was fun.

Let go of my hand now. Why? I want to tell you something. What is it?

Shhh. Come close to me . . .

I love you.

You and I are beautiful.
I want you very much, and I offer to you all of me.

I accept your love with much happiness, and in return I give to you my love. Thank you, Hush! Don't thank me for my love,
Let's appreciate it and cherish it.

Are you still cold?

No, no, not at all . . .

let's go home.

Sure we will.

Mark Walling

You.

Look at you. A most beautiful creation of God.

Unlike the cat, who can't wear a different dress

Monday thru Friday,

You are the most complex of all animals.

Yet in some ways like the cat, you are mysterious, playful and affectionate.

What are you thinking? Your face is so empty and somehow very attractive . . . What makes you tick?

You are liberated. You abhor being a sexual object, and adore being a romantic object. You, all of you, are capable of so much love;
And though at those very low times you question our understanding . . .

We do.

There are often times for closeness. Turn us over, gently — and love us. Because, you see, we all have needs.

You hold us firmly with your little arms,
and comfort even the most mighty of our kind.
You see beauty in a field of buttercups,
and make us aware of that beauty you find.
You are soft, powerful and very tender. You bring us peace when there is battle.

Stay with us now, walk by our side —
please.

There are fields more vast to enjoy.

Mark Walling

*. . . I am a part of all that I have met;
Yet all experience is an arch where through Gleams that untraveled world whose margin fades
Forever and forever when I move . . .*

Alfred, Lord Tennyson

the flower of life blooms, spreads all the beauty it can then silently dies and fades away.

The background of the entire image is a high-contrast, black and white texture that mimics the appearance of a brick wall. The bricks are rectangular and arranged in a staggered pattern, with dark, irregular lines representing the mortar joints. The overall effect is grainy and aged.

There was so much handwriting on the wall that even the wall fell down.

A photograph may mirror stark reality or wildest fantasy but, in either case, each time the shutter clicks another facet of the photographer's personality is made known to the world. An instant of time that was only once and will never be again is frozen. Recorded is not only what was but what was as the photographer saw it. Perhaps beauty where there was ugliness, vice-versa, an idea, a mood, a dream, something simple, something complex, or perhaps only something where to others there was nothing. On display is an emotion which may be either heightened or utterly lost upon the viewer, but a photograph is and needs no other justification for its existence. Look then upon the photograph as something beyond price yet something from which you may take as you will. Emotion can be neither bought nor sold nor permanently possessed without being cheapened into the bargain. Thus the photographs in this book, yours collectively, important not as possessions but rather for the thoughts and moments they represent. Your thoughts, your moments, your emotions that were once but will never be again.

MY DREAM

By Phillip Gann

*She walks on memories, days gone passed,
But like a dream again,
Comes back today to visit me,
And dances in the rain.*

*She climbs tall trees and skips blue streams,
With the robin she plays,
Hair blowing in the gentle breeze,
On frolicking, carefree, summer days.*

*But later on in the cool night air,
My eyes begin to see,
The grace she selfishly holds within,
With slender fingers on ivory keys.*

*While the music's gently playing,
And I turn my head away,
My wishful dreaming quickly leaves me,
But comes again some other day.*

Then you too . . .

will be a part of . . .

my world.

Below: Pres. Steve Hurt, V. Pres. Bill Agee, Sec.-Treas. Caralyn Katzenmiller.

A strong and active force on the Cumberland campus is the Student Council. Student life is in large part under the direction and control of the students themselves. This organization gives the entire student body representation in the government of the College, sets standards and regulations for social and residential life and a broad range of academic matters, and assists in the smooth operation of the College by students and administration.

Honor Council

Each student who enters Cumberland pledges to uphold the Honor Code. This pledge is made by signing the application and by signing a statement upon matriculation into the College. Anyone who is unwilling to sign the statement and abide by the spirit and letter of the Honor Code is asked not to apply.

While the responsibility for the maintenance of this Honor Code rests on every individual student, the mechanics of its maintenance are carried out by the Honor Council, which is composed of students who are elected by the student body as representatives of each class. The Honor Council investigates each reported violation of the Code, conducts a thorough trial, and recommends a just penalty if the accused is found guilty.

Phoenix

The Cumberland yearbook, THE PHOENIX, is edited by a student staff under the supervision of a faculty advisor. It presents a permanent pictorial record of the highlights of the school year. This publication provides opportunity for the students to develop their literary, business, and artistic talents. THE PHOENIX had been used by its publisher as an outstanding example of yearbook design. Miss Carol Ann Anderson serves as sponsor of the yearbook. Mr. Jim Dressler is responsible for the photography work and is assisted by Woody McMillin.

The Cumberland Collegian

Editor-in-Chief, Charlie Smith

During the regular session, students of journalism edit the college newspaper, THE CUMBERLAND COLLEGIAN, under the general supervision of a faculty advisor with a professional background in journalism. The newspaper is a medium for the dissemination of timely news of campus organizations and activities. It is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and has received the All-American rating of the national organization. G. Frank Burns serves as sponsor.

President's Round Table

The President's Round Table consists of the officers of the Student Council, presidents of classes, presidents of clubs and organizations, editors of school publications, and the President of Cumberland College.

Its purposes are to provide for the common interests and to promote the general welfare of the students, the faculty, and the College; to encourage by example and influence sound scholarship, responsible citizenship, and Christian principles; and to serve as a discussion group in the interest of Cumberland and in a purely advisory capacity.

Jimmy Garman, Sharon Tharp, Wells Nolan, Mrs. McDonald, Patsy Pistole, Clarinda Coulter, Karen Walker, Rae Malone, Marvin Davis, Sherrie Wrinkler, Phil Hall.

The object of Chapter 1919 of Phi Beta Lambda is to serve as a professional organization for business students preparing for careers in business or in business education. The club's members include any students of Cumberland College of Tennessee desiring to be members.

The over-all purposes of Phi Beta Lambda provide the experiences essential in the areas of leadership, cooperative enterprise, occupational understanding, and professional development. In addition to regular monthly business and program meetings, the club sponsors various fund raising projects during the year and uses the funds to sponsor school events and projects.

Rotoract

The Rotoract club is organized, sponsored, and counseled by a Rotary club (or clubs), and is established upon certification by Rotary International. The purpose of Rotoract is to develop leadership and responsible citizenship through service to the community, to advance the cause of international understanding and peace, and to promote recognition and acceptance of high ethical standards as a leadership quality and vocational responsibility.

CUMBERLAND COLLEGE OF TENNESSEE
LEBANON, TENNESSEE

May, 1974

I would like to thank the various financial backers of Lebanon and surrounding areas without whose help and support this annual would not have been possible. My thanks also go to the numerous students who worked so diligently in obtaining this help and support.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads 'Jenny Gatlin'. The signature is fluid and elegant, with the first letters of the first and last names being capitalized and prominent.
